Rich in Vitamin C

The food is supplemented with rose hip, a natural source of Vitamin C, known for a long time for its beneficial activity in support of health as it helps strengthen the immune system. Thus your cat has an ally when facing the changes of season and any type of psychophysical stress.

L-Carnitine

Adult cats that mainly live indoors are usually not very physically active. A sedentary lifestyle may lead to an excess fat mass in their body. L-carnitine is helpful in this case as it prevents fat from accumulating, preserving heart and liver activity and function.

Neutral Ph

The food's neutral pH, together with the low magnesium content, prevents the formation of kidney stones and aids good urinary tract function. In addition, the correct calcium/phosphorus ratio guarantees harmonious skeletal and dental development for our cat.
